Washington, January 29 .- (A)-A final vote next week on the year-old cruiser construction bill was assured today when the senate reached an agreement to limit debate on the measure beginning Monday. Passage of the bill, which would authorize 15 cruisers and an airplane earrier, is declared by both sides to be certain. The controversy had narrowed down tonight to the difference between President Coolidge and congress over elimination of a clause specifying that the ships be laid down before 1931.

President Interested.

Unwilling to concede defeat in his drive for elimination of this provision the president is watching the senate eedings closely. It was made known today that he was prepared to submit a recommendation for funds to enable immediate work on some of the ships if he is granted his re-quest that the chief executive he charged with carrying out the pro-

Monday.

Plans for night sessions were promptly abandoned. It is not considered likely that votes will be taken on any of the amendments, including the vital time limitation provision, before Monday evening. Meanwhile, the bidding for votes on the time clause is going on apace.

Herbert Hoover, who yesterday wired Mr. Coolidge a "warm" indorsement of the position the president has taken, was referred to in the discussion today when Senator Oddie, republican, of Nevada, one of those supporting the time limitation, declar-

Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader, negotiated the agreement which brought an end to fears of a filibuster against the bill and made certain the final vote. Not a voice was raised against his request when it was submitted late in the day after conferences with opponents of the measure. Under the agreement the debate will be limited to 10 minutes for each senator after 4 p. m., Monday.

Monday.

Hamlin asserted that Dr. Dreher had become "a dribbing idiot" and that Mrs. Lebouef was in a state of coma, unable to recognize her children because of the terrible strain they had passed through since their conviction. He told the justices that the law of Louisiana prohibited the hanging of the insane and required that they be treated for insanity, with the state empowered to carry out the death penalty provided reason was rethe state empowered to carry out the death penalty provided reason was restored, but that the state had refused to enforce the statute. He urged the justices to stop the execution until the court could determine whether his clients had been deprived of their constitutional rights in being refused treatment as insane.

After interviewing a majority of the court without success, all fire justices having refused to grant a stay of execution, Hamlin concluded that it would be useless to see the other four and wired his assistants in New Orleans to initiate habeas corpus Perplexing Situation.

The committee will meet tomorrow to consider the perplexing parliamentary situation. It first had planned to convene this afternoon, but when it was found that other business would prevent consideration of the deficiency measure by the house tomorrow the meeting was postponed.

A year ago the house got into a somewhat similar situation during consideration of the McNary-Haugen farm bill which President Coolidge later vetoed. At that time the bouse debated at length whether an a nendment which had been adopted killed the equalization fee provision of the farm measure and it was not until the next day that the question was streightened out.

Garner, however, pressed for a specific promise that, even if the senate should recede, the questions would be submitted for a vote in the house, but Wood and Representative Cramton, of Michigan, another member of the appropriations committee, argued that this would tie the hands of the house conference committee.

HOLDS DRY FUND BILL

Washington, January 29.—(P)—For the second time in two years the house today cut short a session to solve a problem of parliamentary procedure, the trouble developing this time over how to consider the prohibition and tax refund items in the deficiency appropriation bill.

The day had been set aside to take up the $24,000,000 irem for tax refunds and a full membership was on hand to participate in their consideration. After an hour of wrangling, adjournment was taken to enable the rules committee to decide upon the procedure to be followed.

provision that its expenditure should be directed by the president. Shortly after. Wood's motion had been offered. Representative Garner, of Texas, who with a number of other democrats favors approval of the prohibition item, countered with a suggestion to debate the proposal.

After further discussion Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican leader, moved adjournment, and this carried by a vote of 195 to 93. The Tilson proposal was supported largely by republicans with democrats voting in the negative.

Want Record Vote.

The voting had been preceded by several hented exchanges, with the democrats pressing for a record vote on the direct questions of prohibition and tax refunds. They argued that a vote later on final approval of the bill, after revisions by a conference committee, would not be an expression of the views of the house on those specific proposals.

The verbal strife began with Garner pressing Wood for a promise that if the house consented to have the bill go to conference with the senate the Indianian would bring these two proposals back to the house for a vote before finally disposing of them.

Wood said that he understood that under no circumstances would force the conferees to come back to the house for a vote.

IGDEN MILLS DIES: WAS 72 YEARS OLD

Financier Was Noted for His Many Philanj thropies.

New York, January 29 .- (P) -- Opden Mills, financier and patron of the arts, died at his home in East Sixty street early today of pneumonia. He was 72 years old.

At his bedside were his son, Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, and his daughter, the Countess of Granard. His other daughter, Mrs

Mills received his elementary educa-tion in that state and later came east complete his studies at Philips Exeter academy and Harvard.

He only recently began to relax from the responsibilities of an active business life. He was an officer in several corporations and a director in many others. His contributions to art included donation to the Metropolitan Museum of Art of the George Catlin collection of Indian paintings and a ollection of bronzes.

Ogden Mills was a son of Darius Ogden Mills, a descendant of early colonial stock who went to California during the gold rush of 1840, where he organized the bank of D. O. Mills & Co., in Sacramento, and later the Bank of California, of which he was president for many years. D. O. Mills returned to New York in 1880. No Similarity in Trials.

No Similarity in Trials.

There was little similarity between the first days of the trial of Harsh, who has been sentenced to die at Milledgeville on March 15, and of Galledgeville on March 15, and of Galledgeville on the state is endeavoring to send down to the middle Georgia town as his companion in death.

With the exception of the quick selection of juries to try the cases—the Harsh jury and the present one were chosen in three hours each—the presence in court of the same members of the Smith family, his wife, brother, sister-in-law, and foster mother of Mrs. Smith, and the uncontested evidence of hospital attendants, there was nothing in common.

tested evidence of hospital attendants, there was nothing in common.

There was none of the quiet, easy-going atmosphere of the Harsh trial. The first minute in court developed a controversy between opposing counsel. Throughout the Harsh trial the state table was nearer the jury box. That arrangement was the first item to come within range of defense fire. At the end of a half bour a compromise was reached whereby ends of both tables are equi-distant from the box. In the Harsh trial the tables were placed parallel to the box. Tuesday the two tables were at angles of 45 degrees with the railing.

Objection Follows Objection.

Objection Follows Objection. From that moment every move of both state and defense brought resistance. Objection after objection came from both sides. It was clear that any attempt to place Dick Gallogly in the door of the Eighth Street pharmacy at 11 o'clock on the night of October 6, 1928, would be resisted to the 4ast question.

macy at 1 o clocks on the hight of October 6, 1928, would be resisted to the fast question.

The crowd, which filled every seat and overflowed around the walls of the courtroom, was well in hand. Once during cross-examination of the fleet-footed delivery boy whose specialty on the night of last October 16 was putting one in front of the other in rather rapid succession, the audience broke into a laugh.

Judge Moore suppressed the disorder as sternly as a first sergeant wipes the smile from a buck private's face. He declared that at the next outbreak he would clear the controom, and those who had won seats by dint of arriving early and staying late, heeded the warning.

Old English Tavern Model :: EVERETT STEEL TO OPEN THE TAVERN TONIGHT ::

For New Atlanta Tea Room

BY ELMO HAMBY.

"... and crackling oaths went back and forth ... Across the fist-banged board."

Minus only the lusty vociferousness of those famed Britishers of olden times, they've brought a nobby bit of the England of old to Atlanta, in the opening tonight of The Tavern, "Atlanta's Very Jolly Tea Room," at 65 1-2 Broad street, N. E., under the personal direction of Everett D. Steel, widely known in Atlanta.

Sturdily styled in oak, softly lighted and perfectly appointed, The Tavern with skilled chefs and faultless service, provides a spot where Atlantans may seek and find a business or a social luncheon; may linger over the tea cups and chat in the afternoon or execute a dinner to one's pleasure.

For the past three months, Mr. Steel, artist, designer and what he styles a "puddler" into the bizarre and interesting, has been engaged in personally overseeing the furnishing and modeling of The Tavern. And to even the smallest detail, the hand of

Scientific Classification

Professor Stephen Langdon, director of the Field museum-Oxford university joint expedition, at this conclusion in a report to State of the Misseum.

The professor explained that through excavations below the modern water level archaeologists established a scientific classification of the various periods from the beginning of civilization upward to the Neo-Babylonian period, marked by the great temple of Nabunidus at the end of the sixth century.

"This remarkably well-preserved emple." Langdon reports, "which in sart still preserves the cornice of its cestern walls, now stands on the verge deep cavity. Fourteen meters the pavement of the temple, the last king of Babylonia took from the Medes, the ruins of refuge from the Medes, the ruins of the brick walls now appear inundated by the risen water level of Mesopotamia, on the site said to have been the place where Kish was founded immediately after the flood. Apparently the water level has risen about nine feet since that ties.

The civilization at Jemdet Nasr.
Langdon believes, can be dated at 3500 B. C. Many inscriptions were found there and identified as written in the Sumerian language. So primitive is the script of these first attempts in writing that the verb is not inflected and the noun not declined.

Congressmen, constitutional authoritles and administration officials are much divided as to how the decision ought to come. The point involved is whether the constitualon means the "adjournment" of a women traffic cops. If they are latter session of the continuing congress, or the final adjournment of the term of a congress, which is an adjournment by force of law anyhow? If, for instance, the supreme court holds that the adjournment of the first session of this congress last May was not the adjournment fistic contests than ever before.

THE CONSTITUTION meant by the constitution in relation to the president's action or non-action upon bills passed and submitted to him short of ten full legislative days, then the Muscle Shoals bill will be a law. But, if the court holds that the adjournment prevented the president from acting upon the bill within his Turkish limit and returning it to congress, then the bill is not a law. Hence the country will look with much interest to the conclusive decision that is to come down from the supreme tribunal.

NEW COTTON FOR OLD JUTE.

The Fulmer bill to authorize the secretary of agriculture to establish standards of bale coverings is under hot fire in the rooms of the house committee on agriculture.

The jute importers and manufacturers of jute bagging for cotton are especially fighting the measure, feeling that it is aimed at their virtual monopoly in that field and intended to promote a domestic industry in cotton bagging. In both of which instances their claims are correct.

For many years past there have been efforts by congressmen, not.bly by Senator Ransdell, of Louisiana, to break the jute stranglehold upon the cotton producers of the south. The senator has been indefatigable in proving, in congressional hearings, the advantages of substituting cotton for jute in bagging our annual cotton crops. Cotton bagging of highly satisfactory quality and economy is being produced and used in certain localities of the southwest, but the growth of its production and use is heavily hampered by the tariff and trade favoritisms given to jute.

It does not seem to be remembered by the tariff and trade favoritisms given to jute.

He has already written that the economic or social system will function and last if founded upon altruism alone."

Our whole American political system was devised and is constitutionally keyed to conserve and promote of enabling the man himself to see the poposition that would develop and thus will him off as a possibility. That sort of thing is alien to Mr. Hoover's nature and to the deepest principles he holds about human relations.

That a man should be mentioned as a cabinet possibility and subsequently not get the position is not an experience that all men would regard as agreeable. It makes it appear as the man had been considered and experience that all men would regard as agreeable. It makes it appear as if the man had been considered and found lacking. Mr. Hoover never would subject any man to that experience. On the contrary, so far as he can, he would protect men from it. To be sure, there are men who do not object to it, but on the contrary welcome it or even seek it. Sometimes multiput men while they are in the times public men while they are in the growing stages of their careers look upon any kind of flattering publicity as so much capital. However, after a man has arrived at a first rank place either in public life or in his private career, he does not cherish seeing his name set up only to be honeled down as involved. knocked down, or ignored. Even to this type of man, it sometimes happens inevitably that his name is "men-tioned" when in fact he neither asks, nor is being considered for a cabinet

During the present weeks, as dur-ing all cabinet making periods, men of high standing and obvious availability will continue to be mentioned whe in fact they do not seek the office, and in some cases would be a little dis-mayed if they were asked to take it. In the present period, if past precedent holds, anywhere from 70 to 100 names will have been "mentioned" in one spirit or another for the ten cahi-

net posts. Obviously, some eight or nine out of every ten guesses are go-ing to turn out incorrect. Up to date, the sole custodian of information about Mr. Hoover's cabi-net as a whole is Mr. Hoover himself. Up to date, the sole custodian of information about Mr. Hoover's cabinet as a whole is Mr. Hoover himself. That condition may continue until March 4. The earliest appropriate time for a president-elect to make formal announcement of his cabinet is during the few minutes he ceases to be president-elect and is actually president. That is to say, the first official business of a president immediately after he is sworn in, is to send to the senate the names of his cabinet. The names must be confirmed by the senate. That fact in a sense gives the senate a right to the first authoritative announcement.

This idea is a thing within the world of official propriety and courtesy. It is now blanket and paralyzing traffic in many places.

Alfred Johnson, 14, was killed yesterday when the sled on which he was coasting crashed into an automobile here.

A Man Is No Bigger Than The Thing He Quarrels About -By Robert Quillen-

Two friends, who were closer than brothers and never had exchanged hard words or irritated one another, went hunting in the north

A blizzard caught them and they carried their little store of provisions into a deserted cabin and there awaited the storm's passing. Snow piled high against the cabin windows and made them pris-s. They knew they could not get out for weeks.

At first their imprisonment was an adventure. They laughed much. Their mutual love was insurance against boredom.

But men seldom are greater than their environment. And all values relative. An income that provides abundance in a village will not the rent of a desirable apartment in a metropolis.

The two friends began to lose their sense of values. One complained because the other whistled. One spoke sharply because the other sharpened a knife too much. They snarled for days and then relapsed into sullen, brooding, dangerous silence.

When they were free they tried to fesume their old comradeship, but they had discovered littleness in one another and each felt selfconscious and ashamed

What caused their tragedy? They lost their sense of values. Nearly all of the world's unhappiness can be traced to a similar

When they permitted their horizon to close in and began to focus their attention on small things, they lost their sense of values as inevitably as night follows day.

Man's one hope of remaining manly is to keep his interests wide to think big. If his thoughts are focused on the job next above him, or a plan to improve his community, or any other thing bigger than himself, his sense of dignity will not let him quarrel about the repainting of kitchen chairs. Intimate associates fight over trifles because soul imprisonment has taken away their sense of humor. If they stoop to shameful scenes they would have scorned a year ago, it is because they have "gone native." They have shrunk to fit their environment.

A remarkable record has, so far, been achieved in the motor vehicle department this year, in that every mail application has, up to today, been filled and the tag mailed out the day received. No left-over work from the previous day has faced the clerical force any morning.

Whether or not, with the daily increase in demand, it will be possible to maintain this record through to the end, is uncertain but Mr. Carswell stated Tuesday that he and his assistants were pledging themselves to do it if humanly possible.

of her father. Lee Gentle, 958 Curran street. Tuesday morning.

The charge of murder that was lodged against her, following her arrest in Atlanta, November 6, in company with Furman Jones, of Greenville, S. C., who was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary after pleading guilty as an accessory, was not prossed Monday.

Solicitor A. Fletcher Spigner, in announcing that not only the murder charge against the girl had been not prossed, but that the charge of accessory had heen withdrawn, said that he was fully convinced that the girl had nothing to do with the murder and did everything she could do to prevent the crime. Charles B. Vaughan, of Jacksonville, Fla., was sentenced to life imprisonment after a jury had returned a verdict of guilty, in connection with the killing. a jury had returned a verdict of guilty, in connection with the killing.

Plain-clothesmen working on the case expressed the opinion that the robbery was committed by the same gang of safecrackers that operated in Atlanta about a year ago. They made their assertion after noting, it was stated, the similarity in the methods employed by those who caused the losses 12 months ago, and those who blasted the safe at Albert's. It is believed that rubber gloves were used by the robbers to eliminate all danger of leaving fingerprints on the safe door or on any article in the office.

Today, in Moscow, probably the most remarkable experiments of this nature are being carried out by earnest young physicians who are modest in regard to their achievements and who permitted press reports only aft-er their work was completely recorded

The experiments have been conducted for the last four years on a high scientific plane and the commissariat of health, impressed by the results, had just made a generous appropriation to the institute for continuing the work. the work. 'Alive' Over 3 Hours.

Dr. S. S. Brukhanenko and Dr. S.
I. Chechulin are in charge of the experiments. They have succeeded in creating an "artificial heart" which has kept the detached head of a dog "alive," in so far as action and sensitiveness are concerned, for as long as three and one-half hours. The experiment has been performed before noted scientists.

blood circulation, an operation could be performed to make necessary surgical repairs on the heart.

Dr. Brukhanenko said the experiments have shown the body of an animal lives for at least three minutes

Brain Retained Life.

The process of death, according to the experiments, is active rather than passive; that is, it is a continuous process in which different cells and tissues cling to life longer than others. In testing this active process, the scientists point out that a dog's head has been kept in a state of life after severing it from the body, proving the brain retained life after the body was "dead" and only needed to be fed blood and air again to "awake."

Dr. Brukhanenko conducted the United News correspondent to the laboratory and demonstrated the apparatus. The artificial heart is a prosaic looking affair of glass, rubber and metal, attached to a dynamo. Its very simplicity is impressive to

Dr. Brunkhanenko poured water into the central glass reservoir and turned on the current. Soon the heart was visible "beating" and the water was pumped into one set of glass "arteries," passed through a "breathing apparatus." where it absorbed oxygen and completed the circuit, being pumped back into the reservoir through another set of "arteries.' The entire action is automatic.

Negro Who Refused Pardon After 25 Years Dies in Prison Hospital

Raiford, Fla., January 29 .- (A)-An old negro, who refused a pardon after serving 25 years of a life sentence for murder, paid his debt to society in full today.

Joe Peacock, 67, died in the priso hospital on the grounds where he elected to stay because, as he told the governor who wished to set him free. "I've nowhere else to go."

In 1893, Peacock went up for the murder of another negro at DeFuniak Springs. He became a model prisoner and in 1918 Governor Catts proffered him a pardon. "I've been here so long now I had rather stay, if it's all the same to you boss," Peacock was said to have stated.

Col. B. L. Bugg Traces Fifty Years' Progress

"Fifty years progress in transportation," an address by Colonel B. L. Bugg, was the feature of the program of the luncheon meeting of the Lions' club at the Henry Grady hotel Tuesday. This was one of the "fifty year" series being conducted by the club.

Colonel Bugg traced briefly the history of railroads in the country showing how they reached their present stage of development by a gradual process most of which has come in the last half century. The country now has one mile of railroad for every 12 square miles of territory, he stated, and there is little likelihood of increasing this mileage as the trend in the past few years has been downward rather than upward. He blamed decrease in passenger traffic on auto travel.

Ordinance Committee Considers Re-zoning; Asked To Curb Electrician.

Although approving several re-zoning proposals submitted by the city planning commission and another proposed ordinance which would limit the buying power of the city purchasing agent, the ordinance committee of city council Tuesday failed to act on a plan to concentrate all electrical administration work under the city electrician and deferred action on a move to annex about three-eighths of a square mile of tenth ward property to the seventh ward. The meeting was one of the most spirited held by the committee this year and caused a clash between the park department and Pat Hendricks, electrician, and between friends of W. P. Price, purchasing agent, and those who sought to reduce the amount of merchandise he may buy without approval of the purchasing committee from $500 to $50.

West Ashland avenue and Krog street property was re-zoned by action of the committee and will go to the council Monday for approval. The site formerly was residential property, but has been added to the industrial list. Other recommendations for re-zoning included re-classifying the southeastern corner of South Boulevard and Atlanta avenue, and Piedmont avenue from Piedmont park to the Southern railway, 100 feet deep, from business to residential territory.

Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, and chairman of the parks committee of the city council, opposed concentration of all electrical work under the electric department, opposed concentration of all electrical work under the eletric department, declaring it would react to demoralize the park system. There were other objections which caused the committee to defer its recommendation on the paper.

The Central of Georgia railway would be made the dividing line between the 10th and seventh wards if a proposal offered to the ordinance committee is sanctioned by the mayor and general council. This would mean that Oaklaud City, which now lies in the 10th ward, would be annexed to the seventh.

Tenth ward representatives opposed the action until a public hearing is held regarding it. They succeeded in deferring action.

Junior League Presents Exhibit At Hennings Preview at Museum

A reception featuring a preview of the paintings of E. Martin Hennings, noted American artist, and a display of handwork of members of the Junior league will be given for members of the Atlanta Art association from 4 to 6 o'clock Fridny afternoon, February I, at the High Museum of Art. Junior league members will act as hostesses on this occasion, presenting a musical program at 5 o'clock.

Fostering art and the appreciation of art as a part of its program, the Junior league has acted as hostess at previews of art exhibits held at the High Museum throughout the winter. The arts and interest committee, of which Mrs. Preston Arkwright, Jr., is chairman, will be in charge Friday.

The exhibit of Junior league work which will be on exhibit at the reception, will include examples of handcraft of nunsual beauty and perfection. Among those whose work will be on display are Misses Claire Hanner, Virginia Torrance, Frances Brown; Mesdames Emory Cox, Preston Arkwright, Jr., Latane Montague, Rybun Clay, J. P., Garlington, William Warren, George Raine, Henry Cooper, Henry Newman, Lawrence Willet, Francis Jones, William Mc.

Kenzie, T. W. Tift, W. S. Ramsey and Virginia H. Warren.

The work of E. Martin Hennings is well known here and abroad, being a distinct contribution to the realm of decorative art. The twenty-two canvasses on display are characteristic of his style, which affords a pleasing combination of realism and impressionism. Among the pictures in the exhibit at the Paris salonings of Venetian, Spanish scenes at previews of art exhibits held at the High Museum throughout the winter. The arts and interest committee, of which Mrs. Preston Arkwright, Jr., Cofficers of the Junior league include: Miss Margaret Nelson, president: Mrs. Philip Wilcox, treesting the provious description of the realm of decorative art. The twenty-two canvasses on display are characteristic of his style, which affords a pleasing combination of realism and impressions on New Mexico, Mr.

Hennings was signally honored for his work in the exhib where she is taking a special course in flora-culture and horticulture.

This is an excellent model for printed tweed, voile, georgette or linen, also for these materials unprinted. As pictured, printed crepe in blue and beige on a background of darker blue was used. The waist may be closed from right to left, or from left to right.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 8 10, 12 and 14 years. To make the dress for a 14-year size as pictured in the large view will require 4 3-8 yards of 36-inch material. If made with long sleeves 4 3-4 yards will be required. To face the belt with contrasting material requires 1-4 yard 36 inches wide. To finish the dress as illustrated will require 2 3-4 yards of bias binding.

Now, Spooky had planned that the instant that lid should be lifted, he would fly out. But it is one thing to plan and another thing to do what you have planned. The lid of that grain bin, was thrown open suddenly and it let light in with a rush. It was all so unexpected that lall Spooky could do was to blink. You see, he couldn't adjust his eyes to the light so quickly. So, of course, he didn't fly out. Farmer Brown's boy saw Spooky at once. Such a funny look as there was on the face of Farmer Brown's boy.

Miami Bout To Be Biggest Sports Event in South's History

Rice Declares Fight Certain To Be Success

Reservations Are Pouring in Daily and 40,000 Spectators Will See Battle.

BY GRANTLAND RICE. Miami Beach, Fla., January 29 .-The battle of Miami Beach now promses to be the largest sporting event south has yet put on so far as back. concerned. The Tech-Georgia football game has drawn over 30,000 spectators and $100,000, but from the way early reservations are coming in Stribling and Jack Sharkey will draw lose to 40,000 spectators on February 27, and possibly more. There is now a trifle over $80,000 in cash on hand with a steady flow of orders piling up each day and this flow will be increased when work begins on the new arena tomorrow mornland of green paims and yellow sunshine by Thursday or Friday night, · A southbound train will drop Stribling in Miami within a few hours and Sharkey will follow without delay.

There are two details that will make this fight a success. One is the fact that Stribling is the only white heavyweight the south has ever seen among the leading contenders. Jack Johnson came from Galveston to win heavyweight the south has ever seen among the leading contenders. Jack Johnson came from Galveston to win the heavyweight title many years ago, but no white heavyweight below the Mason and Dixon line has ever gotten anywhere to speak about. On this account there will be large delegations from Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina on hand to pull for the southern entry. The other help will come from several thousand wealthy vacationists at Palm Beach and Miami Beach who have begin making orders in 25 and 50-ticket lots. There is a good chance that from 3,000 to 5,000 will descend from Palm Beach while Miami Beach and Miami will have over 50,000 northern and western visitors in the neighborhood with time to kill and money to spend, a combination that is all any promoter can ask for. will have over 50,000 northern and western visitors in the neighborhood with time to kill and money to spend, a combination that is all any promoter can ask for.

matches on our card. The crowd coming in will want action and well see that they get it. There is too much at stake for both Stribling and Sharkey in this fight for either to do any stalling, for the one who loss will take a big flop as a future card and the one who wins will be a long way on the road that leads to the top. As a fighter, a fight to me altward and that this show is starting in a much bigger way than I ever thought it would.

Therefore, and I dilke to add that this show is starting in a much bigger way than I ever thought it would.

Dempsey has been doing some light roadwork and will begin boxing at an early date. His future plans are still uncertain. They will remain in that goodition until Sharkey and Stribling have had their party. If this party is a hit or a wow, Dempsey may turn to promoting as a profession. If it is a flop he may swing hack into action. But it won't be a flop if Stribling and Sharkey give their best, something Stribling will be forced to do with several thousand of his countrymen watching his stunts. Stribling, after all, is only 24, and Tunney at 24 was taking a terrific beating from Harry Greb, a middle-weight. As the facts stand now, the fight. As the facts stand now, the fight is sure to go through.

The arem will seat from 44,000 to 50,000 with a better view of the ring than most bowls carry—and with the south pretty well steamed up and over a hundred thousand visitors in Florida looking for excitement there is no chance that it will be a flop from the attendance or the financial side. This is a matter of small importance compared to the type of show that Stribling and Sharkey will put on. They will be training within a few hundred yards of one another and once they start work and the arena of Georgia pine starts to climb there will be no further argument about the size of the ballyhoo.

W. F. Carey, of Madison Square Garden, who came here worried, is now beaming after the manner of the Florida sun. And he isn't a goodenough actor to take this cheerful relief. If this show goes over it will be an annual event and there is a chance that it will get across in a bigger way than anyone—except Tex Rickard—ever believed it would. View of Ring Good.

Long-Driving Professional Says Controlling Left Hand Is Most Important Part of Game-Instances. -BY CRAIG WOOD-

Craig Wood has come forward in the last year as one of the most brilliant of the younger eastern professionals, and he was a sensation in the last National open championship. He is one of the finest drivers in the game.

The one thing I want to emphasize most in bettering your tee-shots is the controlling left hand. That is, it should be in entire control on the backswing, and the right should have no part until it is needed to give the punch at the moment of impact. You can't get results off the tee if you're gripping with the right hand when you take the club-head team of full-blooded redmen from Haskell institute, last night.

Huge Gotham Atlanta Professional Team Defeated by Indians, 55-38 To Run Under

Neither team seemed to be on ope for the affair. The Indians, who boast a long record of achievements on the court, proved to be an aggregation of long-shot artists, and made most of their points from near the center of the floor, while Tubby's crew showed lack of practice together.

High Sky broke the ice just after the starting whistle with a pretty crip shot. "Tiny" Hearn, ex-Tech center, and a lad who topped the lists in altitude, with 6 feet 8 inches to his credit, and who led in scoring with 20 points, put the All-Stars in front momentarily with a neat effort from mid-court and two free tosses, but that was the only time the Haster and could not come back.

Moreover, on the day following the Sharkey-Stribling fight, Cole proposes to be standing on Jack Dempsey's to be standing on Jack Dempsey's doorstep down in Miami Beach with a certified check a foot and a half long, containing more figures than a Zeigfeld chorus.

Dempsey, according to Cole, who is associating himself with Fugazy in the project, has promised these ambitious rivals of the Madison Square Garden an audience before he lends one of his slightly cauliflowered ears to any other propositions.

"The size of the check will make Dempsey's eyes blink worse than Gene Tunney did," admitted Cole, refusing to deny that it would be for $500,000.

"We will offer Jack a record sum to fight either Paulin or Godfrey."

Many Fouls Called. Hearn, White, and Angley were best for the All-Stars. Tiny counted just half of his points from the foul line, aided by the fact that many fouls were called, but no player left the game for accumulating four of-fenses. Baesman, Tiny's opposition at center, had 11 misdemeanors to his credit at the final whistle.

Both teams agreed prior to the contest that no players would be ejected for fouls. The Indians came to Atlanta with but six players and one of them was out with injuries.

Recently at the Oglethorpe football banquet he proceeded to call a spade a spade in talking about the proposed new athletic stadium at the Peachtree road institution.

> Facing 50 football players, freshmen and varsity men alike, he told them exactly what they had to do and minced no words. "We are going to build a granite stadium at the approximate cost of $750,000," he said. "And you fellows will have to build it. You will not be asked to give one penny nor solicit money from anyone else. All you will have to do is play winning football."

Losing but five men this year, Coach Robertson can look forward to the 1929 football season with some hope of improvement. He loses the services of Sims, Malsby, Vaughn, Clements and Crouch. The loss of these men will be felt, but last season Oglethorpe had the best freshman team the university has boasted in a decade and not a single man from the varsity backfield is lost. Hope should be high out that way.

IN THE ELECTION of Charlie McLaughlin as captain of the Petrel outfit of 1929 the squad made a wise move. Charlie is not only an outstanding football player, but he is well liked by the men and has a keen head on his shoulders. He will be a great help to Coach Robertson. Jeff Burford, newly-elected alternate captain, is an excellent guard and will be one of the mainstays in the line next season. He is just as well liked by the men as Charlie is. . This was evidenced by the fact that the first ballot resulted in a tie between the two men.

In that way the words "Joe Grim" have come to be a sort of synonym for persistency under punishment in any sort of business.

At one time Leach Cross was un-popular for some reason, which no-body ever seemed to understand. Crowds would go to the fights just to see him knocked out. But he wasn't to see him knocked out. But he wasn't knocked out. So persistent and game were his efforts that Cross became just as popular as he had formerly been unpopular. He became a great drawing card. Leach Cross really was a very likeable, sincere fellow. He made quite a lot of money.

It was the followers of Leach Cross who coined the famous phrase still current in the fight game: "Box fighting is a business." In wandering into this discussion I have drifted from the story of my first appearance in New York as a

The very best of the fighters went after Grim and hammered him all around the ring but they could not knock him out. His presence in the ring got to be a joke among fight fans. He became a favorite. They went to see him regularly just to be present when the first man knocked him out. He made considerable money by appearing solely as a punching bag.

If Glenn Wright recovers his old form he can assist nicely in minimizing Wilbert Robinson's burden at Brooklyn. Vance and McWeeny are the headlights of the pitching staff. Manager Robinson was one of the smartest backstops of his day; and he is so gifted with insight into the ivory industry that he can almost pick a pitching prospect out of a Christmas shopping crowd. There are several promising young slabsters on his list.

Pictures of Wagner, Tinker, Wallace, Scott, Peckinpaugh, et al, flash before me as I think of the position. With the score tied and less than 30 seconds to play.

Throughout the contest Hurricane forwards experienced defficulty in getting by the tight Cadet defense, but the Purple in turn presented a close five-man defense which turned to manto-man style once the Cadets broke through the zone. Both teams were shooting "on the fly" throughout and missing important points.

Coming into the game at guard as a substitute for Bluestein, Bryan Grant, southern tennis champion, scored the tying and winning points, in the final period.

Grant, despite his small stature, recovered the ball repeatedly. This was somewhat counterbalanced, however, by poor dribbling, Grant depriving his team of several points by dribbling down the court when Purple players were standing clear under the Cadet goal.

The Club Car Mystery at Syracuse club car after the two conductors had entered it.

The conductors were at an absolute loss to explain the situation. Sloan, the young brakeman, had been a trustworthy and exemplary employee for mere than three years. Had he and the porter quarreled? Had they come to blows, and had Sloan fied upon discovering that a blow had rendered the porter unconscious? They had been, apparently, on most amicable terms during the afternoon. Why had the brakeman deserted his post? No attempt had been made to rob the porter of money, but his keys were missing.

As the train pulled into the Syracuse station, Pullman Conductor Yeats discovered the missing brakeman's visored cap and blue-cloth, brass-buttoned coat, neatly rolled into a ball, jammed into the drawer of the writing desk at the rear end of the club car!

There are times in the solution f practical mysteries when quick hinking is essential. Only the aflure to think and act quickly n the celebrated Cleveland-New York express train offair (on the rase) is responsible for the incident going down in history as an insolved mystery. At least that is the opinion of Captain McCumber of the Syracuse police, who furnishes the following facts established by that ill-managed in-furnishes the following facts established by that ill-managed investigation, to which, unfortunately, he was summoned so late.

The Cleveland-New York express on the night of March 23, 1925, was 15 minutes late on its run from Rochester east into Syracuse. It was, therefore, speeding to make up time. There were unusually few passengers aboard. At the last call for dinner, which was made by a dining-car waiter at 7:40, the club car on the rear end of the train was virtually, if not entirely, deserted by passengers for the diner forward. There was no specific testimony on this point from anyone in the entire course of the investigation.

At about 7:50 William Osborne, a realtor of Cleveland, passenger on the featrenoon, to smoke a cigar. Osborne's testimony, subsequently given to the detectives was as follows:

"I tried the door leading into the club car, and it was locked. I banged on the door, hoping to attract the porter's aftention; then I saw a bell near the door and rang that hard several times. Then I pounded loud. Pretty soon the brakeman, or maybe it was one of the conductors, pecked out from behind the curtain of the window in the door, and then he opened the door a little bit. I don't remember what he looked like, only that he was white, not a negro, and he was in uniform.

"Car is closed,' he said; 'somethings the matter with his car—just wait a few minutes until we get it fixed."

"All right,' I said, as he was starting to close the door on me, 'but show the clevel of the investigation was obvious.

"'All right,' I said, as he was starting to close the door on me, 'but please give me the right railroad time, will you? My watch has stopped.

"I noticed he was kind of impatient, but he pulled out his watch and said:

"'Eight of eight.'

"I set my watch and turned back, and I guess he locked the door again, but I didn't notice. I never thought anything of it. Then I went back in the next Pullman in front and said down."

Asked by a detective: "Are you down."

Asked by a detective: "Are you sure he said 'eight of eight?" Osborne replied in the affirmative. He remembered it distinctly, he said, because the repetition struck his ear.

According to further testimony of Osborne, approximately two or three minutes later the train slowed down percentilly on approaching the rail-minutes later the train slowed down perceptibly on approaching the railroad yard at Syracuse, and a minute or so later had slackened its speed even more as it entered the yards.

At 7:55 Pullman Conductor Yeats and Train Conductor Sedgwick, who had been chatting with passengers forward since 7:30, passed through the train toward the rear and were surprised to discover the club car locked. Thinking that the Pullman porter possibly was taking an opportunity to serve liquor to passengers on the sly, the Pullman conductor opened the door with his key and strode forward with a rebuke on his lips. He stumbled over the crumpled figure of Arthur Johnson, the colored porter, whose head was bleeding from a cut at the back. The porter was unconscious on the floor near the door. He did not respond to ice water dashed in his face.

When Pullman Conductor Yeats had first entered the car and discovered the unconscious porter. Train Conductor Sedgwick had examined the lavatory at the front end of the club car and found it empty. Indeed, all facts of the investigation subsequently established that no one had left the

For the past few days call money has been easier than for any corresponding period in many months. It is believed that this was due to large offerings of money in the call market by investment trusts in funds waiting a more favorable opportunity to buy stocks. However, during the noon hour call money advanced to 7 per cent in response to preparations for month-end requirements.

The market opened steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 2 points. There were some overnight buying orders brought in by the steadier tone of yesterday's market. They were readily supplied. The market cased off during the middle of the day under comparatively small offerings. March declined from 19.95 to 19.76 and July from 19.63 to 19.44. New October contracts sold off from 19.28 to 19.13, making net declines of about 10 to 17 points. Trade demand made an appearance as prices approached the 19 3-4 cent level as it had done on previous setbacks.

It was supplemented by covering and the market rallied several points from the lowest. The demand tapered off on the advance, and prices weakened again in the late trading.

of small orders either way. Apprehensions of labor troubles in Manchester owing to the dispute over oiling and cleaning machinery during working hours were repeated by cable advices and may have had an unsettling effect on sentiment. Private cables said trade calling and continental buying had been supplied by liquidation in Liverpool and that demand for cotton cloths from Indiawas poor while trade with China was restricted. Reports that cotton mills on continental Europe were now operating at fairly satisfactory levels were mentioned in connection with some of the earlier buying.

A private authority was quoted as estimating the world's consumption of American lint cotton for December at 1,250,000 and for the first five months of the season at 6,255,000 against 6,936,000 for the same period last year. TREND DOWNWARD.

New Orleans, January 29.—(P)—
Irregularity and erratic fluctuations characterized today's session of the cotton market but the general trend of prices was slightly downward. May contracts after trading up to 19.35 in early trading reacted to 19.14, recovered 7 points but eased off again and closed at 19.16, 13 points net down. The general market closed steady at net declines of 11 to 13 points.

The market opened irregular as Liverpool cables were slightly easier—near months opened 1 to 4 points down. New York, however, opened higher causing an initial gain of 1 to 5 points on later positions here. Prices

"Results from Your COLLECTION SERVICE Astonishing!"

One of our policy-holders, the Metro Electric Co., Chicago, writes us:

"The majority of claims filed with you on past due accounts had been thoroughly worked by us and as the last resort we were obliged to file them with you under the conditions of your policy.

"The results obtained through your office in securing payment of these accounts were astonishing. The majority of these, even though considered uncollectable, were reported by your office as paid in full."

American Credit Insurance

renders this really remarkable collection service through our organization of trained specialists, operating in 15 Collection Service Offices located in strategic cities of the United States and Canada.

This is simply an added service to the fundamental function of American Credit Insurance which is to protect the book accounts of Manufacturers and Jobbers against abnormal, unexpected credit losses.

On this day he had other things to attract his attention. Suddenly it became as midnight. Faintly came a low, sad moaning. The great trees bent. Vivid and blinding lightning flashed from the whirling, inky clouds above. Roaring thunder belched forth its fearsome challenge. The deluge camepandemonium broke loose!

The tribe huddled in shivering fear from the cold rain at the base of great trees. For hours it raged ending suddenly. To Tarzan came a dawning light to explain the mystery of clothes. How snug he'd have been beneath Sabor's heavy coat! So was added a further incentive.

On Sounder Basis.

Discussing world flying, Captain Moses expressed opinion that American aviation, while slower in development, is on a sounder basis than European aviation. Continental air lines are heavily subsidized by governments, be used to substantial and the subsidized by governments. he said, and are largely patronized by American tourists. On the other hand, American air business is developing naturally and is paying its way as it goes, giving it greater virility than its foreign sister industry. He expressed the belief that this year or next year at the most, American aviation would take a world lead in statistics and would hold it, having successfully overcome the handicaps of vast areas to cover in flights and private control and operation necessitating slower but surer growth.

Sitating slower but surer growth.

The entertainment program of the club, arranged by Lionel Keen, featured Lieutenant Gitz-Rice, noted Canadian soldier and musician, and a quintet of talented showmen from the Loew Capitol theater. They sang several beautiful numbers, among them being several of Lieutenant Citz-Rice.

> Postmaster General New, speaking on aviation before the "Progress din-ner" in New York, Tuesday night, said that the airmail service now is turning its attention to the building of a great international airmail com-munication system after having been a pioneer in the development of avia-tion in the United States. Sketching briefly the history of the first efforts to earry mail by air, the postmaster general declared that the commercial development of the airplane in the United States had come about large-ly through the efforts of the postof-line development. fice department. "Flying night and day, through the snow and over the frozen ground of the north and down through the palm-bordered lanes and orange groves of Florida and California, the airmail routes now operate day in and day out 24 hours a day," Mr. New said. "Twenty-three routes are flown within the borders of the country, serving more than 100 of our larger cities, carrying an average of seven and one-half tons of mail each day and flying in excess of 30,000 miles daily."

The postmaster general pointed with pride to the United States' foreign airmail routes and stated that a route to the Canal Zone, touching at the larger cities in the republics of Central America, and a service that will carry mail down the Pacific coast to all South American countries are beall South American countries are being arranged. "We are bringing into closer contact the peoples around us."
Mr. New said, "and thereby closely cementing their friendship and sharing their commerce, trade and industry

The nation's budget for airport development in 1929 is set at $94,000,000 by Walter H. Sandt, Jr., of New York, after a survey of plans completed by 1,116 cities for improvements of some kind during the year. By far the greatest amount of the money, Mr. Sandt says, it to be expended by the 643 existing municipal and state airports which have hudget. and state airports which have budget-ed more than $80,000,000 for their 1929 needs. Private airports will spend but $14,000,000, though they are almost as numerous as public fields.
